NOTICE

In order to file a response in writing, you must do the following things:

- (1) Your written response must contain the title and number of this case.
- (2) Your written response must specify the item or items of relief requested by the other side which you oppose. In addition, you will need to file supporting affidavits setting forth the reasons you oppose the requested relief and facts supporting your position.
- (3) Your written response must be signed by you and must contain your current mailing address. All future notices and documents in this case will be sent to you at the address listed on your written response unless and until you file in this case a written notice of a change of such address, and the court will proceed on the assumption that you have received all communications and documents mailed to you at your most current address on file in this case.
- (4) Your written response together with supporting affidavits must be mailed or presented to the clerk of the court so as to actually reach the clerk of the court within the time stated above.
- (5) Your written response must be accompanied by payment of any filing fee required by law for the filing of the response, or you must obtain a court order waiving or deferring such filing fee (you should contact the clerk of the court if you have any questions concerning a filing fee).
- (6) At or before the time you file your written response with the clerk of the court, you must mail a copy of the response together with a copy of supporting affidavits to the attorney for the other side, or to the other side personally if the other side is not represented by an attorney, and you must attach to the response which you file with the clerk a certificate showing that you have mailed a copy of the response to the attorney for the other side or to the other side personally. If you file a written response in the manner and within the time stated above, the court will decide whether or not to grant the relief requested by the other side, and you will be notified by mail of the court's decision.

However, you will not be entitled to seek any relief for yourself against the other side. If you wish to seek affirmative relief for yourself against the other side, you must file an appropriate motion or motions for such relief, and you must mail a copy of such motion or motions to the attorney for the other side or to the other side personally if the other side is not represented by an attorney.

If you have any questions, you should see an attorney immediately.
